BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Peoria, Ill., Nov. 10.—Prohibition agents were today preparing to cope with distribution of large amounts of bonded liquor stolen from the Woolner distillery recently robbed by thieves who tunneled their way into one of the large warehouses. Information reaching agents here is that the bootleggers, taking advantage of the "bonded" whiskey robbery are jumping their prices, claiming that the liquor is part of that obtained in the plunder. Soft drink parlors are being watched more closely than usual, the agents said.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Peoria, Ill., Nov. 10.—Treasury heads at Washington have been notified, and may personally direct the work of checking and investigating the "tunnel robbery" of the Woolner distillery, government agents said here today.

First reports given out, intimating a possibility of 25,000 gallons as the amount of loss, were said today to have been more or less overestimated, according to government storekeepers and gaugers.

No checking or investigating has as yet commenced. Responsibility for action in the matter has been taken over by Chicago and Washington revenue officials, all investigation will await word from authorities "higher up" it was said.

Agent W. Grievess is expected to return to Peoria within a few days for further inspection, authorities here announced today.

Tunnel Well Built

The tunnel, thirty feet long, believed to have been built by a gang of clever Peoria hi-jackers, was a marvel of scientific construction leading from an "unbonded" warehouse to the Woolner warehouse of the U. S. Food Products Co. A line of several hundred feet of garden hose had been cleverly concealed along the tunnel leading to the floor where 3,000 barrels of whiskey was stored. The syphon method was used in transferring the liquor quickly from the barrels in the warehouse to containers at the other end. The work had evidently been going on indefinitely, agents say. Fishline signaling apparatus also was found. The fender ground passage has been filled with cement.

A "tip from a friend" gave government agents the first knowledge of the robbery. The mysterious informant said over the telephone that he had received information from an intoxicated man in the streets. Store rooms are being constructed in triangular form, surrounded by high interwoven fencing, charged with 20,000 volts of electricity. Two additional guards will be placed near this fence, with an added tower watchman for further security.

Jury Gets Case in Which Oregon Lady Brought Prosecution

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 10.—A jury today began deliberating in the case of Albert J. Moore, founder of the life institute, who was tried in criminal court on a charge of conspiracy to obtain money by false pretenses from Mrs. Hattie Cartwright, wife of a justice of the State Supreme Court. Gabriel S. Adams, Moore's assistant, is a defendant with Moore.

Mrs. Cartwright, contributed more than $2,000 to the life institute before she lost faith in Moore's teachings, which many of his followers looked upon as a new religion in life conduct and which he is alleged to have represented as a system that would cure mental, physical and financial ills.

One witness testified yesterday that Adams offered to heal his broken leg for $5.

Arguments in the case were completed this morning.

Heavy Fighting in Dublin During Night

Dublin, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Heavy fighting took place in various parts of the city during the night. The irregulars renewed their attack on Wellington Military Barracks and also fired on the Portobello Barracks. The early morning hours were made more hideous by the rattle of machine guns.

Two civilians were found dead on a suburban road and two soldiers lay wounded this morning in the center of the city.

FIREMEN'S FAIR
TO RAISE FUNDS
FOR CONVENTIONLocal Department Now Making Plans for State Meeting.

On Tuesday evening of next week at Rosbrook's hall, the first fireman's bazaar to be held in this city in 21 years will open, to continue through the week. The bazaar is sponsored by the members of the Dixon fire department, the proceeds derived to be used for the purpose of entertaining the delegates to the annual convention of the Illinois Fireman's Association to be held in this city Jan. 9, 10 and 11. A beautiful diamond ring is to be awarded the closing night of the fair, this coveted prize now being on display in the Trein jewelry store.

The convention in January will bring to this city about 500 people, fire chiefs from every city in the state and their ladies. A representative from the office of State Fire Marshal Gamber at Springfield was in Dixon last week and made reservations for fifty men from that department. This represents the largest attendance from the state office that has ever attended a convention. George Dietrich, formerly of Dixon and now of Chicago, spent two days here this week making reservations for between fifty and seventy-five men from the Chicago fire department, who will come to Dixon in special coaches, and expect to bring a brass band of fifty pieces from Chicago Heights. These compose the largest delegations that will attend the convention.

Requests are coming in daily for reservations and the indications point to an attendance of about 450 people for the three days. The firemen hope to be able to raise sufficient funds through the bazaar to defray the expense of entertaining the visitors during their stay here. They hope to be able to provide a program which will be a credit to the city and appeal to the public to assist them in this undertaking. The cause is a worthy one and only through the co-operation of the public in general, can the success of the convention be assured.

FOUNDER OF D. A. R.
DIED THURSDAY IN
PLYMOUTH HOSPITALPicturesque Career of Mrs.
Mary Lockwood Ends
in Death.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Plymouth, Mass., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Mary Smith Lockwood, founder of the Daughters of the American Revolution, died yesterday at a hospital where she had been a patient since September. She was 91 years old.

Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, "Little Mother" to the Daughters of the American Revolution, was the last survivor of the little group of eight women patriots who organized that body more than thirty years ago; and despite her nearly full century of years, she was one of the most active members of the organization almost up to the time of her last illness.

Not only was Mrs. Lockwood identified with the founding and the progress of the D. A. R., but she was an active figure in the Women's Republican Organization, and also a noted author. Her chronicles of Washington history, especially diplomatic and political, have placed her well upon the roll of writers.

Daughter of Warriors
Mary Lockwood was born at Chautauque, N. Y., in 1831, a daughter of the famous Smith family, founders of Smith College. Her ancestors were warriors. Her great-grandfather was a Revolutionary soldier; her grandfather lost his life in the battle of Black Rock, in which her father also fought, and her husband, Henry Lockwood, was a soldier in the Civil War. It was to accompany him on part of his way to the front that she went to Washington, where she lived for the remainder of her life.

Her father was a leader in the Whig party but later became a Republican, and the daughter, who did a great deal of reading with him, grew up an ardent advocate of that party. When, in 1880, the first Republican Women's club was founded, she became a charter member.

Eight years later she was deep in the task of promoting and managing the first International Council of Women, and in this work she met for the first time such prominent women as Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. May Wright Sewell, and Miss Rachel Foster.

Founder of D. A. R.
While the life of Mrs. Lockwood has been replete with many interesting accomplishments, the outstanding work of her career was the founding of the D. A. R.

The organization is frequently referred to as "something Hannah Arnett started," for the reason that sentiment looking toward the creation of a patriotic body to commemorate the part played by women in the Revolutionary War was crystallized by the publication of Mrs. Lockwood's story of "Hannah Arnett." This heroine, according to the story, broke in upon a meeting of American leaders who were considering terms of surrender in 1776, when the British had settled before Elizabethtown, and defied faced the colonists. The indignant, scornful woman, in an elegant appeal, shamed the discouraged men into action and convinced them the Americans could win out in the end if they were loyal and patient.

At the time her story was published, Mrs. Lockwood was the proprietor of a boarding house in Washington. It was a popular gathering place for the leading celebrities of the national capital, among whom were General and Mrs. John A. Logan, and it was at this house in 1880 that the group of eighteen women met and founded the nationwide order that now numbers more than 172,000 women among its members.

NEXT CONGRESS

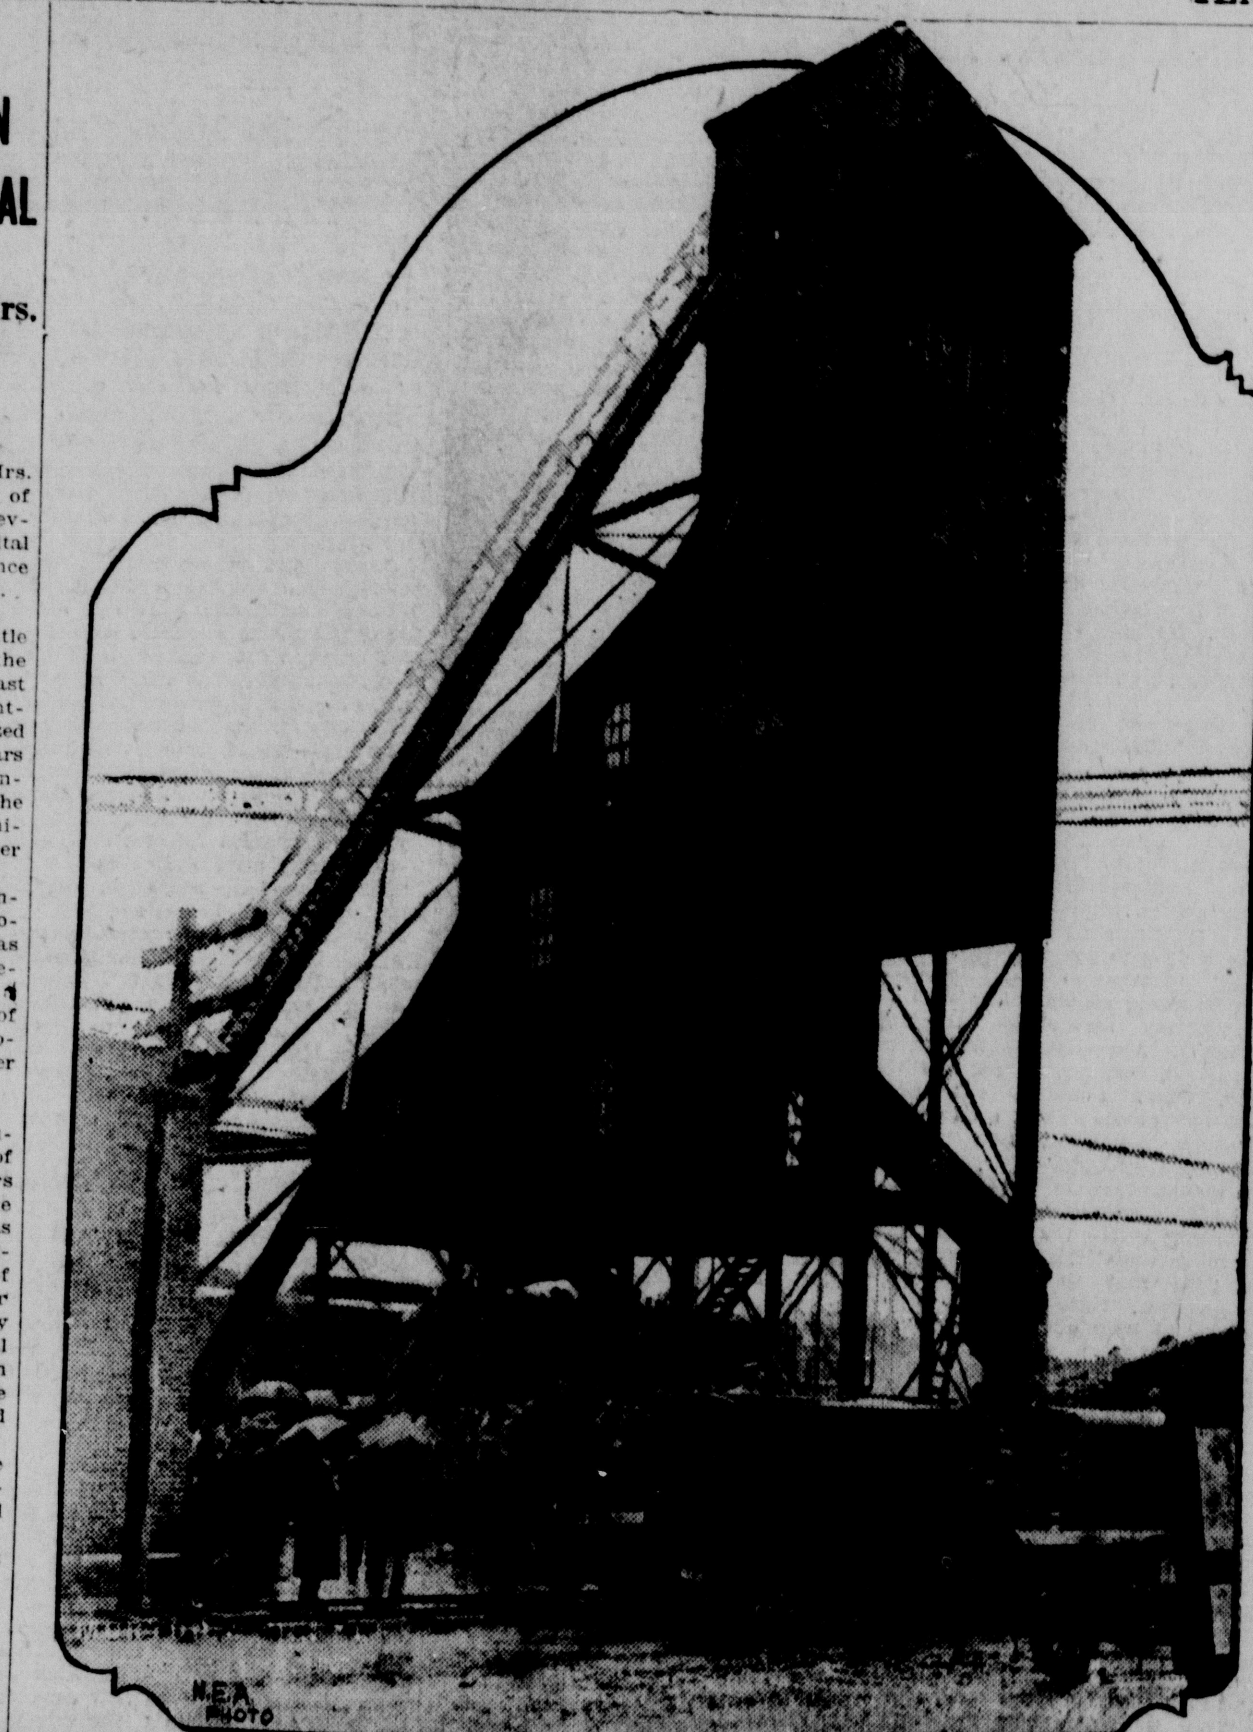

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 10.—On the face of practically complete but unofficial returns from Tuesday's elections the exact lineup by parties in the 68th congress, will be:

House—Republicans 225; Democrats 207; Socialist 1; Independent 1; Farmer-Labor 1.
Senate: Republicans 53; Democrats 32; Farmer-Labor 1.

The republican total in the senate is predicted upon a victory for that party in the senatorial contest in North Dakota. Should final returns show the election of F. T. O'Connor, the democratic candidate the republicans would have 52 and the democrats 47.

In the present senate the republicans have 69 members and the democrats 26, a republican majority of 24. In the house the republicans on the basis of unofficial returns will have a majority of fifteen over the combined strength which could be mustered against them by the democrats and others and a plurality of eighteen over the democrats as a party unit.

In the present house the republicans have a majority of 165 over all and a plurality of 166 over the democrats.

Up News.

London, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—No one in England seems to know whether the situation in Constantinople is better or worse. The news that has trickled through since the Turks cut the cable near Chanak has been of a vague nature and the air is full of disquieting rumors. Some newspaper reports declare the troubled conditions in Constantinople are becoming worse, while others report improvement, but none convey the impression of reliability. On the whole, British sources of information declare matters are getting worse at Constantinople and French sources report improvement.

PASHA TO CONFERENCE.

Constantinople, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The allied high commissioners this afternoon handed a note to the Angora government representative here demanding the repeal of all measures relating to the customs, the public debt and the sanitary and other services which conflict with the capitulations and the stipulations of the Mudros armistice agreement.

Ismet Pasha, Turkish nationalist foreign minister, left here this afternoon at 12:50 o'clock for Lausanne to attend the peace conference scheduled to begin there next Monday. He was accompanied by R. Riza Nureyev and a suite of military, financial and economic experts.

The foreign minister told The Associated Press he was sincerely anxious for peace and was confident of achieving it if the allies adopted a reasonable attitude.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 10.—A simple wedding and a domestic life like other "plain folks" is the plan of Miss Delora Angell, $40,000,000 heiress, who turned down princes, dukes and other sons of royalty for her childhood sweetheart, Lester Norris, 21, artist, and son of Cal Norris, the village undertaker at St. Charles, Ill.

Miss Angell, who is 19 and heiress to the estate of her uncle, the late John W. Gates, announced her engagement to young Norris last night. Their romance began when they attended the village school together. "I always liked Les, even when he beat me in a swimming contest," she said. "I was in the fourth grade, Lester was ahead of me; he was in the sixth."

The couple plan to live in the old Angell home at St. Charles until their new bungalow on the banks of the Fox River is completed.

"I don't want a fancy wedding," Miss Angell said. "It's going to be a quiet family affair the first part of next May. Of course I want some of the boys and girls in town that we know."

The young heiress said she wants no retinue of servants in her home, adding that she wants just one maid, "Old Chetty," her affectionate nickname for a servant who has been with the family for years.

"I don't want a chauffeur," Miss Angell said. "I want to drive my own car. I guess we'll have to have a man for the yard and garden. Les isn't very handy at those things. Besides, he will be busy drawing pictures."

When he left the hospital last night, his condition was somewhat improved.

Former Stage Star
Held as Drug Fiend

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Nov. 10.—Clasie Loftus, for more than 20 years a well known actress on the stages of both Great Britain and the United States, was arraigned today in police court and charged with being an unauthorized person in possession of morphine and atrophine. She appeared to be ill. Through her counsel she pleaded not guilty.

The magistrate admitted the actress to bail and adjourned the case for a week. Her lawyer said she would spend the time in a nursing home.

Miss Mary Wynn is spending a few days visiting with her sister in Chicago.

All of the county offices in the court house will be closed all day tomorrow in observance of Armistice day.

COPIES OF NEW CONSTITUTION—
FOR ALL VOTERSAtty. Brewster Will Furnish Them to
All Who Ask.

Attorney E. H. Brewster, who represented this district in the Constitutional Convention, desires to furnish all interested persons in Lee and Whiteside counties with information regarding the proposed new constitution and will be glad to supply copies of the proposed constitution to anyone who will leave name and address at his office in the Dixon National bank building in Dixon, either by phone, by mail or in person. Mr. Brewster's telephone number is 128. The pamphlet Mr. Brewster will supply is a complete copy of the proposed new fundamental law and is arranged very conveniently with side notes pointing out all changes or departures from the present constitution, greatly aiding intelligent analysis of the work of the convention. Every voter should be interested enough in this highly important question to secure a copy of the book and study it. The pamphlets are free. Copies of the proposed new constitution may also be obtained by writing to Henry I. Green, Chairman of the Committee on Submission and Address, Urbana, Ill.

TWO HARD GAMES
TOMORROW WILL DRAW ATTENTIONIllini-Badgers and Chicago-Ohio Battles
Main Ones.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 10.—University of Chicago football rosters with the 100 piece university band and the freshman grid squad will leave on special trains tonight for Columbus to cheer the Maroons in tomorrow's game with Ohio State.

Coach Stagg and the varsity left last night. A few substitutes were left behind to follow on one of the roster specials.

The Maroons are in good shape for tomorrow's conflict. Otto Strickmeier was Stagg's selection for quarterback and with Pyott will do the punting for the Maroons.

The Chicago-Ohio State game is expected to be one of the most stubbornly fought battles in the Big Ten tomorrow, but the Wisconsin-Illinois game at Madison is attracting more attention, perhaps, than the others because of the intense feeling between the colleges since their row over professionalism.

Wisconsin, too, is one of the undefeated leaders in the Western Conference championship race with Chicago, Iowa and Michigan. To beat Wisconsin is Bob Zuppke's greatest wish of the season, now that championship prospects have gone and according to most critics the Badgers must turn back the Illini tomorrow to remain among the most serious contenders for the title.

Iowa plays Minnesota at Iowa City and Purdue meets Northwestern at Evanston.

Indiana goes outside the Big Ten for another battle, engaging West Virginia at Indianapolis.

Michigan, looking forward to the Wisconsin game next week, remains idle tomorrow.

Jayne Still Unable

What Happened Him

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 10.—Still unable to shed any further light on his strange disappearance and loss of memory two weeks ago, J. Howard Jayne, capitalist and politician, was back at his home in Monmouth, Ill., today after spending a week in an Evanston hospital.

Mr. Jayne appeared at the hospital a week ago in a dazed condition, after a trip to southern cities. He was unable to explain anything in connection with the trip, but in his vain attempts to remember what happened, repeatedly said:

"Somebody pushed me."
His wife contended that Jayne was drugged and abducted by persons seeking to thwart him in some of his business enterprises.

When he left the hospital last night, his condition was somewhat improved.

ALLEGED MURDERER
ON STAND THURSDAY
BEFORE DIXON JUDGEBlair Denton of Erie Made Good Witness for Himself.

(Special to The Telegraph.)

Morrison, Ill., Nov. 10.—Blair Denton, Erie young man who is accused of the murder of his father-in-law, Roy Sibley, at Erie on Oct. 5, took the stand in his own defense late yesterday afternoon, being the first witness called by his attorney, H. H. Waite, when the state closed its direct evidence. He made a good witness during the afternoon hours, but faced a grilling cross-examination today.

Examination of witnesses, which started Thursday morning, revealed that the defense will attempt to prove that the murdered man was an intruder in the Denton home and that the accused man was provoked to the fatal shooting through circumstances arising out of difficulties with his wife relative to her absence from home with other men.

The attorneys for the defense waived their privilege of making an opening statement and Thursday morning the taking of testimony in the case was begun.

Attorney Besse declared the state expected to prove that Roy Sibley was the only son of Henry and Lydia Sibley and that he lived at Prophetstown, Ill.; that he was about 42 years of age, and his parents about 70; before Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sibley moved to Erie they lived in Portland township for a good many years, that Roy Sibley was married and that his wife died and left two children, one of them being Helen, the wife of Blair Denton; Helen went to live with her grandparents when about 6 years of age. About six years ago the accused came to live with Henry Sibley and worked for him for a while. Five years ago last April he was married to Helen Sibley. They lived at the Sibley home for a time and finally went to farming, but the farming enterprise did not prove successful and about a year ago in October, Denton gave up farming and he and his wife went to Muscatine, Iowa, to work and from there she went to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. Blair went after her and returned to the Henry Sibley home in Erie, the Sibleys moving to Erie a year ago last spring. Since that time they have stayed there, being more or less objects of charity so far as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sibley were concerned.

The evidence will disclose that the treatment Helen received at the hands of the defendant was not at all times the best. In fact they did not get along very well. He worked but part of the time, and last winter hardly worked at all. Blair returned to the Sibley home in Erie, the Sibleys moving to Erie a year ago last spring. Since that time they have stayed there, being more or less objects of charity so far as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sibley were concerned.

The evidence will disclose that Blair Denton on or about June 1, went to work for the C. B. & Q., and worked until Saturday night before the alleged crime on Thursday. He came home Saturday night and on Sunday went to the home of Robert Glass, his brother-in-law. While there he went into the bedroom where Robert Glass was, and looked over a gun Robert had in a dresser. It was the same one Denton had taken with him when he made a trip to Iowa last December. He looked the gun over, and talked to Robert Glass about it and possibly took it with him. He then went home and took an auto ride with his wife and child. They went to Morrison and the car would not work so they returned home in a taxi. He did not go back to work on Monday or Tuesday and informed his employer that he would not be back at work. On Wednesday he worked on his auto.

On Wednesday night his wife took their little boy to a picture show and when she came home he made a number of accusations against her and they had a heated argument. Thursday morning he continued accusing her regarding her conduct.

Helen asked Harold Sibley, aged 11 years, to call her father at Prophetstown and ask him to come over. The defendant had made threats against his wife's life and also threatened to take the life of Roy Sibley, her father. Roy Sibley went to Erie by taxi and arrived there about 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

The Fatal Quarrel.
In the meantime, Henry Sibley had arrived home. After he had been there for a short while, his son Roy came. Denton was at home. Denton and Roy Sibley had an argument about Denton's conduct toward his wife, Helen, also about his conduct in not working. He was told to get out and go to work. There was a little scuffle at that time. Blair Denton said he would like to see anyone throw him out of his own home. Henry Sibley and Mrs. Denton stopped the scuffle. Denton went away shortly afterwards to the home of his sister, Mrs. Robert Glass. He gave her a railroad pass he had been using and told her at that time that he was going away. He also said that he was going back to the house and that no one was going to put him out. He went home about dinner time, but did not eat with family but sat in the bedroom. After dinner Henry Sibley and his son, Roy, went up town. Denton also went up town and was the first one back. He

CLEMENCEAU HAPPY ON EVE OF LEAVING FOR AMERICAN VISIT

"Tiger" to Sail Saturday for Third Visit to United States.

Paris, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Georges Clemenceau sails away for America tomorrow, happy in the spirit of adventure. Today he was gay—interested and interesting—

—he was eighty-one last September—the eagerness with which the

"Tiger of France" anticipated the experiences that are soon to come to him in the United States is quite touching to those who see him and talk with him.

What impresses his American callers the most is his youthfulness of outlook. He talks of the present and the future in the manner of a man in middle life; he refuses to be reminascent.

"I never was much of a chap for the past," Clemenceau remarked to the correspondent who asked about the former premier's earlier visits to the United States. This is not his first trip to America, as is commonly supposed, but his third.

Fellowed Civil War

"My father, who was exiled by Napoleon III, thought it would be a good thing for me to go to America and I went," Clemenceau said. "I had been following events of your Civil war and my sympathies were with the north. Almost immediately after my arrival, however, I went to Richmond. There I met a good many southern people and soon found out how delightful, how simply charming they were."

Clemenceau paused a moment and then with a gesture went on:

"Shortly before my arrival Grant had taken the city, and I saw for the first time what war and bombardment meant. Then I went to Washington and later out west as far as

Chicago and from there to Buffalo, and after a while to Boston."

In conversation Clemenceau seldom alludes to his subsequent experience in America first, as a young government of leisure reading extensively for two years in the libraries of New York and then as a teacher in a girls' school in Connecticut. It was during his days as an instructor at the girls' school that Clemenceau met the young woman who became his wife.

Was Married Here

At that time she was under age and her guardian refused to give his consent to a civil marriage only, insisting on the church's benediction. Clemenceau stoutly declined to recognize the church as essential to a wedding. So he went back home selling. He was in 1869. He unmarried. That was in America. The next year he crossed the Atlantic again and was married to his sweetheart at a civil ceremony.

His stay in America gave to the Tiger that knowledge of English which has been one of his most useful accomplishments in his long public career. Always he has taken pleasure in the language and in its literature.

"My intentions in going to America are good; I feed sure of that," the aged politician said. "I see with confidence how it will be to the material and moral interests of the United States that I examine European difficulties with other conceptions than those they have at present."

To Compare Ideas

Clemenceau expects to enlarge his own judgments of European situations by putting his ideas into contact with American views. He does not go to New York with his mind made up and closed as to what would be the mutual and collective advantage of the United States, France and Europe generally.

"I shall talk about the League of Nations, but I have no specific advice to offer," he remarked. "I believe in the idea of the League. The world must have something of the sort. I do not say that the league as it now exists, is what America should adopt.

It does not satisfy me, but I am for the aspirations."

Clemenceau has received immense quantities of advice from Americans as to what he should or should not say in his speeches. Some cautioned him not to be indiscreet, and vex the republicans. Others begged him not to disappoint the democrats. And of this flood of advice Clemenceau has only this to say:

Think of Whole People

"I shall of course have nothing to say about America's interior politics.

I think of the American people; I never separate Americans into categories or undertake to classify them."

Naturally, arrangements for the speeches Clemenceau is to deliver in the United States have been left in the hands of friends who have known him for some time. He always explains to those who seem to have misgivings as to whether the active share Colonel House has taken in the negotiations might not indicate political purposes.

Clemenceau is an early riser. Every day he spends an hour taking gymnastic exercises. He does not drink wine, nor does he smoke and eat heavily. Those meeting him for the first time are always struck by two things—the cloth cap, shaped like a priest's biretta, which he wears in doors, and his invariably practice of wearing gloves when receiving visitors.

FRIENDS—

(From the New York Times.)
When others fall, forsake, forget,
Two friends I have who greet me yet.

The one a pagan creature is,
Bare to the sun's exultant kiss,
The rain's caress upon her breast,
The crawling, crowded earth she spurns,
Hallows the stars to heel and turns
Her body at the wind's behest.

And one loves children, sheep that go
Slow-cropping, twilight, candleglow,
Yet grips a horse between her knees
And flashes high a naked blade
And dreams of white roads in the shade
Of little, whispering poplar trees.

O Beauty! swift to heal and bless
The heart assailed with loneliness,
Daily you summon me to mark,
Serene above the city's fret,
These gracious friends who greet me
yet—
Diana and the young Jeanne d'Arc.

HELD SURPRISE PARTY

FOR THEIR PRESIDENT—
Sixty members of the Ladies' Social Circle of Prairieville carried out a very carefully planned surprise party on their president, Mrs. Laura Royer of Gap Grove.

It is the custom of the Circle to give their retiring president a party on her birthday after having served the Circle for two years. Although arriving a few days after the hostess' birthday, the members of the Circle were made welcome.

A scrumptious dinner was served at noon, the table being laden with good things to eat, the center of the table was adorned with a splendid birthday cake, with fifty-two candles the cake being made by Miss Lola Seavey.

Mrs. Cawley also presented the hostess with a lovely bouquet of chrysanthemums.

After dinner the afternoon was spent in a social way. The hostess furnished music on the player piano. Mrs. Edith Myers and Mrs. Gilbert gave a vocal duet.

Mrs. Carl Straw favored with a reading and encore; Mrs. Myers, Miss Holzman and Mrs. Royer with a song.

As an appreciation of the work that the president, Mrs. Royer had done for the Circle, Mrs. Ira Rutt in a few appropriate words presented her with a pair of silk hose. Mrs. Royer expressed her thanks to the members of the gift.

Mrs. Royer then announced that the next meeting of the Circle would be on Wednesday, Nov. 15th, at the home of Mrs. Freeman Drynan of Sterling. All departed for their homes having spent a very enjoyable day and at which Mrs. Royer many happy returns of her birthday.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

HAD MEETING—
The members of the American Legion Auxiliary held their regular meeting Tuesday with a very large attendance.

The opening exercises were given as usual, after which Mrs. Carrie Decker, President of the W. R. C. made a few remarks, asking the members of the Auxiliary to co-operate with the W. R. C. members, in knitting five hundred caps for the World War Veterans at the tubercular hospital at Denver, Colo. The yarn is furnished by the Red Cross and all were urged to be at the meeting at G. A. R. hall this afternoon to assist. Instructors were to be present. Mrs. Decker also invited the Auxiliary members to an Armistice day program to be given in G. A. R. hall Monday evening. There will be a program with Rev. Moore as speaker.

The general reports were given at this time, chief among them being the report of the bazaar held a week ago, which was a good one, indicating a very successful bazaar, both financially and socially, netting the auxiliary a neat sum for the treasury. The members feel grateful to all who assisted in any way in making this annual feature worth while.

The report of the doughnut sale held last Saturday was very gratifying to those who had it in charge, especially, as well as to all members. The food sales have always proved popular and successful.

A happy diversion was given at this time in the form of a choice reading by Mrs. Albertine McKenny, whose numbers are always enthusiastically received and enjoyed. She kindly responded to an encore.

The members are busy in preparing a quantity of stationery to be shipped to the hospital for the World War Veterans at Maywood, each one contributing paper and envelopes. Those not present and wishing to assist in this good cause, please take or send their contribution to Mrs. Anna Moore, 627 Third street, who is chairman of the committee in charge.

The Auxiliary feels justly proud in having one of their members appointed by the Department President, Mrs. Carrie Clothier, as a state officer. Mrs. John Strub being selected as state chairman for the Thirteenth district. An Armistice meeting will be held in the Legion hall Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at which time a creditable program will be given and at which the public is invited.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 11. Members please bear in mind this date, as plans for a Thanksgiving remembrance for "Our Boys" will be discussed at this meeting and it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED—

You teach your child not to answer to whistles or whistles. Instead of a curt "Yes" or "No" he says "Yes, mother" or "No, Mrs. Blank."

Children should be taught not to talk about what they like and dislike at the table, and to manifest their disapproval of a dish by not eating it rather than calling attention to it and demanding that it be removed from the plate.

No child behaves well in company who is not trained to politeness at home.

E. R. B. CLASS MET IN THE COUNTRY LAST EVENING—

The regular monthly meeting of E. R. B. class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday School was held last evening at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sweitzer in Gap Grove, about forty being in attendance.

After the devotional service the regular business session was held. Miss Martha Meppin, president of the class, presiding. At the close of the business session the class was entertained by a short program. Misses Edna and LaNora Sweitzer gave a piano duet; Mrs. Tobias Sweitzer a reading and Little Miss LaNora gave a vocal selection accompanied by her sister Miss Edna. Each number was heartily received and they all responded with an encore. The home was beautifully decorated in autumn flowers and leaves. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sweitzer, assisted by Mrs. Howard Sweitzer, assistant hostess.

The next meeting of the class will be held Thursday evening, Dec. 7 and will be in the nature of a Christmas party, to be held in the parlors of the church.

ST. JAMES' MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Held Meeting—

A very enjoyable meeting of the St. James Missionary society was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Ida Royster.

There were twenty or more to enjoy the appetizing scramble dinner served at noon.

The program for the afternoon opened with singing Number 200 from the Hymnal.

The 200th Psalm was read and prayer was offered by the president. The monthly lesson was read by Mrs. Geister, the title being "Using Our Forces." The lesson study followed, all taking active part. A tract, the title being "An Attractive Calling," was read by Mrs. Royster and was much enjoyed.

A letter from Mrs. Hammar of Polo was read by the Secretary. The reading of minutes and roll call followed.

Subscriptions for Missionary Magazine were taken as there was no further business.

The meeting closed with all repeating the Lord's Prayer.

QUEEN ESTHER SOCIETY

MEETS MONDAY—

The members of the Queen Esther Society of the M. E. church will meet Monday evening with Misses Annie and Lois Keyes at their home, 521 Peoria avenue, instead of meeting with Miss Frances Ketchum as first planned.

VISITED HELEN DANIELS AT

ROCHELLE HOSPITAL—

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Clark, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Frisby and Mrs.

Charles Wolfe, Sr., motored to Rochelle last evening and visited Helen Daniels at the hospital. Saturday it is expected that Helen's limbs will be removed from the cast and she will be brought home soon. A most successful operation was performed on Helen's limbs some weeks ago to straighten them and now they are straight as anyone's.

CARD PARTY AT G. A. R. HALL—

The Ladies' of the G. A. R. held a card party last evening in G. A. R. hall which was very well attended.

Five hundred was the game enjoyed. Mrs. Mary Walker proving the most successful player in the ladies present, and winning the first prize; Mrs. Lady winning the second prize.

Gus Schweinsberg was the most successful of the gentlemen players and Henry Bremer received the second prize.

Refreshments were served, completing a happy evening.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE—

In Morocco the daughters of a family are supposed to marry in the order of their ages, and this is usually easy since the father arranges the marriages to suit his own ideas.

If, for any reason the order is reversed, the older daughters are not permitted to attend the wedding celebration of the younger sister if they are unmarried.

THE MINORITY PARTY

The voters of the 35th Senatorial District have shown the politicians that the idea of electing three Republican members of the house and refusing representation to the Democratic party is not popular. The enormous vote given John P. Devine of Dixon, the Democratic candidate, is a rebuke to the men who thought they could eliminate the minority representative. It is a tribute to the ability and personality of Representative Devine. It shows that the voters of this district will cross party lines if it is necessary to come to the rescue of a man whom they believe to be honest and able and valuable to the district. Mr. Devine's vote is also, incidentally, a powerful argument in favor of businesslike newspaper advertising, for he consistently and freely used the columns of the Telegraph and most of the other papers in the district in a series of big advertisements explaining in plain words and figures the issues of the campaign. Money spent this way gets more votes than greater quantities spent to hire workers and influence votes in a district such as the 35th.

The Telegraph feels that with Henry Allen from Whiteside, John H. Byers of Lee and Senator Wright of DeKalb, the Republicans over the district will be better satisfied than they were with the arrangement during the previous session, and the Democrats are delighted and many Republicans likewise, as the vote shows, with the election of Devine. We regret that Major Tourtellot who has given many years of honest and valuable service to the public in one capacity and another, should have been eliminated, but the mistake was made in the decision of the Senatorial Committee to nominate three Republicans. We trust that mistake will not be repeated. Let the Republican party thrash out its family difficulties in the primaries and then go before the voters at the general election with two candidates for the house, and a candidate for the senate and they will all be elected without great effort. The Democratic party in this district does not expect more than one member of the delegation to Springfield and under normal conditions will accept that without fighting hard for more. But another campaign like the one just past and public sentiment might be abused to such an extent that the minority party here could get enough support from outraged Republicans to send a Democratic Senator to Springfield. The Telegraph took the position as soon as announcement of the proposal to nominate three Republicans was made that, regardless of the personal qualifications of the Democratic candidate, the attempt to eliminate him was unwise because, of the cold fact that it could not be done would make a lot of scars in the trying.

Tuesday's election was also a pointed victory for John H. Byers, who topped the Republican ticket in Dixon and Lee county, where he is best known and ran second on the Republican ticket in Whiteside county, where he formerly lived. Byers had no group nor organization behind him. His vote is a recognition of his record at Springfield and his years of untiring work for the Republican party. He was handicapped by misrepresentations and untruthful mudslinging. The Telegraph has confidence in Mr. Byers and believes the district has made no mistake in electing him.

A GOOD TICKET

Lee County Republicans selected well at the primary election last spring and the voters of the coun-endorsed the selection at the polls on Tuesday. The county ticket elected is a good one and the officers installed will serve the people well.

County Judge John B. Crabtree, County Clerk Fred G. Dimick and County Superintendent of Schools L. W. Miller have been in public service some years and have proven their worth and stability. The voters knew this and that is why they were re-elected. Charles Eastman, the new County Treasurer, has given ample evidence of his ability to serve the county well through his duties as deputy in that office.

Sheriff-elect Risley, that fine young ex-service man who was given such a vote of confidence at the spring primaries and who had no opposition at Tuesday's election, comes into office as new blood in local politics and with the best wishes of the entire county to start him off with. He is the kind of a chap who inspires confidence and the Telegraph believes that Sheriff Risley will be a valuable addition to the official family of the county.

The return to Congress of John C. McKenzie without a fight should be gratifying to that gentleman who has given his district highly satisfactory service since 1910, six terms.

Every Republican should feel pleased at the election of Henry R. Rathbone, Congressman at Large. The election of the entire Republican ticket in Illinois shows that this state has confidence in the G. O. P. and its principles as in days gone by.

RIVAL SPORTS

Along about this time of year one is inclined to wonder whether the national sport is really baseball. One game of football recently drew a crowd of 75,000 people. There was never a baseball crowd of that size. All over the country there is tremendous interest in football, attested not only by the patronage of the games and the office receipts but the amount of space the newspapers are obliged to give the sport.

Football is seasonal, but so is baseball. Football's season is shorter, and it support is more limited, but in its votaries, while it lasts, it arouses an enthusiasm which baseball at its noisiest can not match. Baseball might be described as the more extensive game, and football the more intensive.

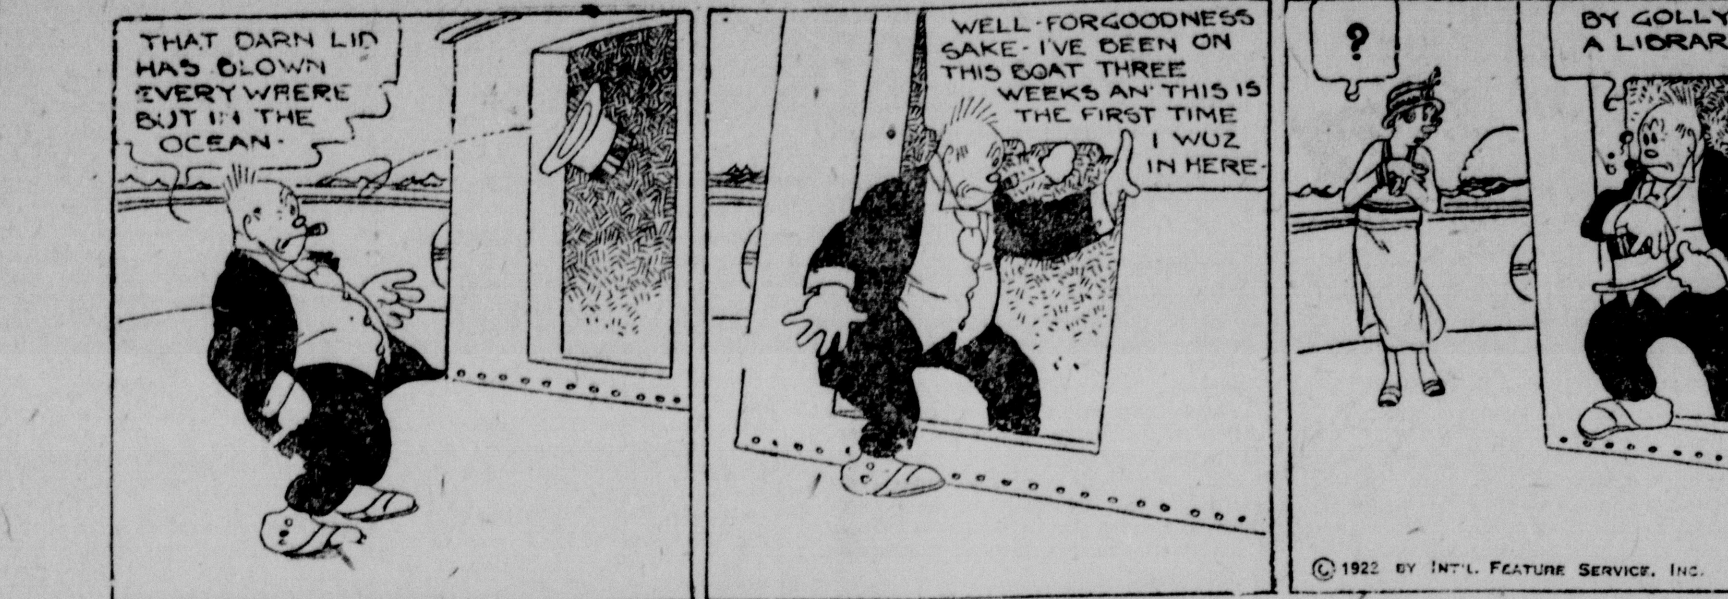

A fact not to be overlooked is that football has risen to its present position wholly as an amateur game. It might be well for the permanent prosperity of baseball if that sport had been kept on the same basis. Let's hope that football may continue to be.

BONAR LAW VS. LLOYD GEORGE

If you glanced at the speech which Premier Bonar Law delivered in Glasgow, and compared it with recent addresses of former Premier Lloyd George, you must have been impressed with an element in it different from the spirit of the average political outburst. This element was candid fairness, which at this time seems most restful and assuring, touching a quick response in the average mind.

The impression which Mr. Law makes is that he wants to be right and fair, to be reasonable and certain. His speech was plain and devoid of rhetorical color and oratorical flourish. The simplicity, straightforwardness, frankness and directness of his

BRINGING UP FATHER

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive E. Brown

THE TWINS VISIT MARS

AWAY to Mars went the Twins to hunt for Mother Goose's lost broom. Mars is a star, a big red one, and you can see it most any night when the moon isn't too bright, or the clouds too thick, or the air too foggy. Well—that's where the Twins went. The first person they saw was a square man who stared at them in a most unamusing way.

"Hello!" called Nick. "Is this Mars?"

"Yes," answered the square man in a jerky voice.

"Well, we're hunting for Mother Goose's broom," Nick told him. "Did you see it?"

"Once," answered the square man stiffly.

"Was it lately?" asked Nancy eagerly.

"Yes," answered the man. "Only about a hundred years ago. She swept a cobweb off my left eyebrow. I wish she would come back. There's another cobweb on my right eye-brow and one, I fear, in each of my ears. I can't hear as well as I did a thousand years ago."

"Goodness alive!" gasped Nick. "A thousand years!"

"Gracious!" exclaimed Nancy. "Are you as old as that?"

"Older!" said the square man gravely. "About a million. I'm only stone now. When I'm two million I'll turn to iron."

"And what will you do when you're three million?" asked Nick.

"I forget," said the man. "I'll have to ask somebody. Perhaps I'll just dry up and blow away."

"This is a queer place," declared Nancy. "Is everybody like you, poor thing?"

"No," said the square man. "We're all different."

June 30, 1923, reports on all but six of the great properties will be ready. Nowadays different states and cities, especially those which try to keep up with the times, are having valuations of interurban and street railway, light, power and other utility companies made. It is now recognized as a principle of ratemaking that property value and operating costs, instead of capital stock are of fundamental importance.

Properties are worth so much. It costs so much to run them. And rates based on value and actual costs are classed as reasonable. And incidentally, this has been found to be a practical way to take water out of the capital of public utilities.

VALUATION REPORTS OF RAIL PROPERTIES

The work of estimating the value of railroad properties of all sorts in the whole of the United States is well on the way toward completion. It was begun ten years ago under the auspices of the Interstate commerce commission. Appraisements of forty lines have been completed, and by

NO USE AT ALL

By Berton Braley

I started out in my career
To "get the money" while I could.
For though the poets scoff and sneer,
To have a bunch of kale is good.
And in life's swift and busy whirl
I gathered jack with all skill,
But failed to win me any girl.
And what is "jack" without a Jill?

What though my balance at the bank
Be beautiful to gaze upon,
I find my life is bleak and blank
Without a girl to spend it on;
So though I toiled with all my might
To put the cold cash in my till,
I find my work is wasted, quite;
For what is "jack" without a Jill?

Put money in your purse; 'twill give
The laugh to want and hunger dread
It makes things brighter while you live
And pays to plant you when you're dead;
But having money lacks in pith,
It brings no fun, no joyous thrill,
Without a girl to share it with.
For what is "jack" without a Jill

ists alike are hoping that it will prove effective.

They are trying to starve the weevil, to destroy the food supply upon which it is accustomed to depend before hibernation, and thus reduce the numbers of the pest before a new crop is begun. The time is regarded as particularly propitious for a test of this method, since nearly 90 per cent of the staple is out of the fields already, and the burning of the stalks and plowing under of the surface can begin much earlier than in ordinary years.

Entomologists say that the weevil can not live more than six days without food, before he begins his hibernation, and that because of this, the pest can be fought in late fall with more prospects of success than at any other time. In the lower Rio Grand valley this policy has been tested with success, and its adoption throughout the whole cotton belt is being strongly urged.

If the state-wide test which Texas is now organizing produces satisfactory results the south's worries over the future of its big money crop will vanish.

DISARMAMENT WITH REASON

Attend to what Secretary of State Hughes said in a Navy day statement. It is an idea that deserves to be harbored in the seat of reason, and often pondered over.

"It would be folly to undermine our position," Mr. Hughes declares. The United States navy must be maintained, he insists at the full naval strength allotted to it under the arms conference treaties. "It will be on this basis that the United States would enter into further conferences to make agreements for limitations."

That is good, sound sense. Let us be as strong as we ought to be. Otherwise, we should be so weak that we could not enforce further reduction of armament. And we should be too weak to guarantee the security of peace and to safeguard our just rights.

Congress Will Meet in Special Session

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 10.—With congress called by President Harding to convene in extra session Nov. 20, members of the house appropriations committee plan to meet today with the aim of having several of the appropriation bills ready for the house by the beginning of the regular session immediately following on Dec. 4. During the two weeks of the extra session, the call for which was issued by the President last night, according to an announcement at the White House early this week, the house is expected to devote its attention to the ship subsidy bill while sub-committees of its appropriations committee work on the supply bills, which form the most important task of the regular session.

ADVERTISING MAN TELLS ABOUT TANLAC

"Advertising men watch each other's work pretty close, and of course I followed the Tanlac ads. I want to say its just like they claim because I tried Tanlac and it fixed me up fine. This statement was made recently by Elliot L. Kramer, well-known advertising specialist, 6110 Eberhart Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"I had a bad attack of stomach trouble," he said, "became terribly run down and nervous and lost a lot of weight. It was next to impossible for me to sleep and I was losing my grip on work. My appetite was just about gone and the little I did manage to eat caused me awful pains, gas and heartburn.

"Tanlac gave me an appetite like I used to have when a boy on the farm. I have gained fifteen pounds, sleep like a top and always feel ready for the biggest job I can get. Tanlac is one medicine with real power."

CHAPTER II

DARRAGH, in blanket outfit, a pair of snow-shoes on his back, a rifle in his mittened hand, came trudging up from the lake. He and Stormont watched Lannis riding away with the two horses.

"He'll make it all right, but it's time he started," said the latter.

Darragh nodded: "Some storm. Where is Eve?"

"In her room."

"What is she going to do, Jack?"

"Marry me as soon as possible. She wants to stay here for a few days but I can't leave her here alone. I think I'll telephone to Ghost Lake for a sleigh."

"Let me talk to her," said Darragh in a low voice.

"Do you think you'd better—at such a time?"

"I think it's a good time. It will divert her mind, anyway. I want her to come to Harrod Place."

"She won't," said Stormont grimly.

"She might. Let me talk to her."

Stormont hesitated, looked at him, nodded. Darragh stood his rifle against the bench on the kitchen porch. They entered the house slowly. And met Eve descending the stairs.

The girl looked at Darragh, astonished, then her pale face flushed with anger.

"What are you doing in this house?" she demanded unsteadily. "Have you no decency, no shame?"

"Yes," he said, "I am ashamed of what my kinsman has done to you and yours. That is partly why I am here."

"You came here as a spy," she said with hot contempt. "You lied about your name; you lied about your purpose. You came here to betray Dad! He'd know it he would have killed you!"

"Yes, he would have. But—do you know why I came here, Eve?"

"I've told you!"

"And you are wrong. I didn't come here to betray Mike Clinch; I came to save him."

"Do you suppose I believe a man who has lied to Dad?" she cried.

"I don't ask you to, Eve. I shall let somebody else prove what I say. I don't blame you for your attitude. Dad knows I don't blame Mike Clinch. He stood up like a man to Henry Harrod. . . . All I ask is to undo some of the rotten things that my uncle did to you and yours. And that is partly why I came here."

The girl said passionately: "Neither Dad nor I want anything from Harrod Place or from you. Do you suppose you can come here after Dad is dead and pretend you want to make amends for what your uncle did to us?"

"Eve," said Darragh gravely. "I've made some amends already. You don't know it, but I have. . . . You may not believe it, but I liked your father. He was a real man. Had anybody done to me what Henry Harrod did to your father I'd have behaved as your father behaved; I'd have bled from this spot; I'd have borne an implacable hatred against Henry Harrod and Harrod Place, and every soul in it!"

The girl, silenced, looked at him without belief.

He said: "I am not surprised that you distrust what I say. But the man you are going to marry was a junior officer in my command. I have no closer friend than Jack Stormont. Ask him whether I am to be believed."

Astonished, the girl turned a flushed, incredulous face to Stormont.

He said: "You may trust Darragh as you trust me. I don't know what he has to say to you, dear. But whatever he says will be the truth."

Darragh said, gravely: "Through a misunderstanding your father came into possession of stolen property, Eve. He did not know it had been stolen. I did. But Mike Clinch would have believed me if I had told him that the case of jewels in his possession had been stolen from a woman. . . . Quintana stole them. By accident they came into your father's possession. I learned of this. I had promised this woman to recover her jewels."

"I came here for that purpose, Eve. And for two reasons: first, because I learned that Quintana also was coming here to rob your father of these jewels; second, because, when I knew your father, and "I can't go to Harrod Place," she said in a low voice.

Darragh's quick smile brightened the somber gravity of his face.

"Eve," he said, "when I came over here this morning from Harrod Place I was afraid you would refuse to listen to me; I was afraid you would not even see me. And so I brought with me—somebody—to whom I felt certain you would listen. . . . I brought with me a young girl—a poor refugee from Russia, once wealthy, today almost penniless. . . . Her name is Theodora. . . . Once she was Grand Duchess of Esthonia. . . . This morning a clergyman from Five Lakes changed her name. . . . To such friends as you and Jack she is Ricca Darragh now. . . . And she's having a wonderful time on her new snow-shoes."

He took Eve by one hand and Stormont by the other, and drew them to the kitchen door and kicked it open.

Through the swirling snow, over on the lake-shore at the timber edge, a graceful, boyish figure in scarlet and white wool moved swiftly over the drifts with all the naive delight of a child with a brand new toy.

All aglow and a trifle breathless, she met Darragh just beyond the veranda, rested one mittened hand on his shoulder while he knelt and unbuckled her snow-shoes, stepped lightly from them and came forward to Eve with outstretched hand and a sudden winning gravity in her lovely face.

"We shall be friends, surely," she said in her quick, winning voice—

"because my husband has told me—and I am so grieved for you—and I need a girl friend!"

Holding both Eve's hands, her mittens dangling from her wrist, she looked into her eyes very steadily.

Slowly Eve's eyes filled; more slowly Ricca kissed her on both cheeks, framed her face in both hands, kissed her lightly on the lips.

Then, still holding Eve's hands, she turned and looked at Stormont.

"I remember you now," she said. "You were with my husband in Riga."

She freed her right hand and held it out to Stormont. He held the grace to kiss it and did it very well for a Yankee.

Together they entered the kitchen door and turned into the dining room on the left, where were chairs around the plain pine table.

Darragh said: "The new mistress of Harrod Place has selected your quarters, Eve. They adjoin the quarters of her friend, the Countess Orloff Strelitz."

"Valentine begged me," said Ricca, smiling. "She is going to be lonely without me. All hours of day and night we were trotting into one another's rooms!" She looked gravely at Eve: "You will like Valentine; and she will like you very much."

"As for me—I already love you."

She put one arm around Eve's shoulders: "How could you even think of remaining here all alone? Why, I should never close my eyes for thinking of you, dear."

Eve's head drooped; she said in a stifled voice: "I'll go with you."

"I want to. . . . I'm very—"

"We had better go now," said Darragh. "Your things can be brought over later. If you'll dress for snowshoeing, Jack can pack what clothes you need. . . . Are those snowshoes for him, too?"

Eve turned tragically to her lover: "In Dad's closet—" she said, choking; then turned and went up the stairs, clinging to Ricca's hand and leaving her with her.

"I REMEMBER YOU NOW," SHE SAID.

knew you, I concluded that it would be an outrage to call on the police. It would mean prison for Clinch, misery and ruin for you, Eve. So—

I tried to steal the jewels. . . . to save you both."

He looked at Stormont, who seemed astonished.

"To whom do these jewels belong, Jim?" demanded the Trooper.

"To the young Grand Duchess of Esthonia. . . . Do you remember that I befriended her over there?"

"Yes."

"Do you remember that the Reds were accused of burning her chalet and looting it?"

"Yes, I remember."

"Well, it was Quintana and his gang of international criminals who did that," said Darragh dryly.

And, to Eve: "By accident this case of jewels, emblazoned with the coat of arms of the Grand Duchess of Esthonia, came into your father's possession. That is the story, Eve."

There was a silence. The girl looked at Stormont, flushed painfully, looked at Darragh.

Then, without a word, she turned, ascended the stairs, and reappeared immediately carrying the leather case.

"Thank you, Mr. Darragh," she said simply, and laid the case in his hand.

"But," said Darragh, "I want you to do a little more, Eve. The owner of these gems is my guest at Harrod Place. I want you to give them to her yourself."

"I—I can't go to Harrod Place," stammered the girl.

"Please don't visit the sins of Henry Harrod on me, Eve."

"I don't. But—but that place—"

After a silence: "If Eve feels that

California Students Don't Want Contest

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—The executive committee of the Associated Students of the University of California has adopted a resolution asking the Pacific Coast football conference not to consider California in on plans for a post season inter-sectional game.

once to the proposed New Year's game at Pasadena, Calif., to be played between Penn State and a team to be selected by the Pacific Coast Conference.

It was explained that California's stand was pursuant to the attitude against post-season inter-sectional games adopted by eastern and middle western conferences.

National Women's Party is demanding equal rights for women.

MAY ACT ON BEER

Washington, Nov. 9.—Proposals for legislation modifying the Volstead Act with respect to the sale of beer and light wines were regarded today at the treasury as extremely likely as a result of the outcome of Tuesday's election.

In the meanwhile, however, Secretary Mellon was reported as holding that the treasury's policy of strict enforcement of the prohibition laws would continue, despite the expression of public opinion in different states. Until the question actually comes up in congress, high treasury officials indicated, little consideration would be given to the possible source of revenue which might be developed from taxes on beer and wine.

OLEOMARGARINE

We handle and sell Algood Oleomargarine absolutely on a money-back guarantee. It is made from the very finest material obtainable. Algood Oleo is fresher than any other Oleomargarine received in the city of Dixon for one reason that we know of which is that it is shipped direct from manufacturer to our store and for price—the real reason for us selling Algood Oleomargarine under some Oleo in price is because we have eliminated the middleman's profiteering.

Algood Oleomargarine is the best spread for bread of any butter substitute on the market.

We want the people of this vicinity to be convinced. So for Saturday we will sell 2 lbs. Algood Oleo for 47c, for we want you to be the judge.

REVIVAL MEETINGS AT REYNOLDS CHURCH

Rev. J. G. Feucht, Pastor
For some time we have called attention to the series of revival meetings to be held during this month, beginning Nov. 12th. We believe it to be the logical time for the farmers. Let us all plan definitely to attend every service, and stick to the resolution persistently. It can be done, and it must be done, if we are actually concerned about our soul's salvation and the coming of God's kingdom.

Our meetings will be made as interesting and profitable as human efforts can make them. Rev. F. Brandt, pastor of the Ashton Evangelical church will assist in these meetings. If at all possible a special chorus to assist in the singing will be formed. Special songs such as duets and solos will furnish helpful and pleasing variety. We cordially invite every one in this community to attend these meetings. Every one needs new enthusiasm and inspiration to live a christian life. Any one not concerned about living a christian life should remember that "it is appointed unto man once to die, and after this the judgment." Heb. 9:27. There is no better place than the church, and no better time than during these meetings to settle the question of living a christian life.

The services during the week nights (except Saturday) will begin at 7:30 o'clock. On Sunday night, however the service begins at 7:00 o'clock. Let us all begin these meetings with a determination to make them a big season of blessings for each one. Begin on Sunday evening and come out every night. The measure of blessings you get from these services will depend on you! The first half hour of each evening will be made an inspiring song and praise service. Come, join in heartily! Catch the inspiration!

AMBOY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. Paul H. G. Bredow, Pastor
Sunday School at 9:30 a. m.

Every member of the Church of the Brethren should be present at these services, both Sunday morning and evening.
All people are cordially invited to worship with us.
The meeting on Tuesday evening will be of special interest to every one in Dixon. We are now living in a Missionary age, and the church who does not believe in Missions has a death sentence over the door. Mr. C. H. Gnagy from Mt. Morris is the Field Secretary for the Church of the Brethren. He knows the world-wide needs, and he will present them in a touching, impressive way that will stir us to action. Do not miss this opportunity. It is yours.

He Is Looking 'Em Over Again

"Eight years of stomach and liver trouble reduced me to a walking skeleton. My skin was dried up and as yellow as a twenty-dollar gold piece. I was filled with gas and had severe pains in my right side. I could not think and had lost all ambition to do anything. Doctors' medicine did not touch me. My cousin advised May's Wonderful Remedy, which snatched me from the grave. I have gained sixty pounds, eat like a hired man and am looking 'em over again." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale at all druggists.—Adv.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

EX-DIXONITE WINS

Dixon Telegraph—In 1899 I came to Dixon to attend school and was for about a year a student at what was then known as Steinmann College. During the time I was in school I lived with my uncle, Rev. J. G. Finkbeiner, who was at the time pastor in the United Evangelical church, on the north side of your city. I afterwards taught school in Lee county for over five years and have many friends living in different parts of the county. On the 7th of November I was elected State Representative from Lake county, Indiana, by 15,462 votes, and my nearest competitor on the Democratic ticket received 9,674 votes. Hence you will note that my majority is nearly 6,000 votes. I have lived in Lake county since the 9th of August, 1913. I taught school for three years and since that time I have been engaged in the practice of law in the city of Gary.

I now have a family of three children and all are happy at "dad's" success at the polls. I got my educational start in Lee county and I have a very kindly feeling for the people there and I feel certain that my many friends will feel kindly in my success at the polls.

Yours very truly,
John W. Thiel, Gary, Ind.

"DR." MOORE ON TRIAL

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Albert J. Moore, founder of the life institute and defendant on a charge of conspiracy to obtain money by false pretenses from Mrs. Hattie Cartwright, wife of a justice of the Illinois supreme court not only claimed to be able to raise the dead, as Mrs. Cartwright alleged, but one of his assistants offered to "cure" a broken leg for $35, according to one witness.

The prosecution closed its case this morning and testimony of half of the witnesses was begun.
George Ruth, an investigator for the attorney general was the witness that testified that Gabel S. Adams, assistant to Moore, offered to heal his broken leg for $35. Adams is on trial with Moore.

STRIKERS IN COAL MINING DISTRICT IN EAST DIG SELVES IN

Preparing for Fight to Finish in Connellsville, Penna.

By NEA Service

Connellsville, Pa.—The nation-wide coal strike is history in most mining fields, but here in Connellsville striking miners are "digging in" for the winter, prepared to fight to a finish for the miners' union.

Barracks of wood are being built against the coming of winter, and already provisions have been made for sheltering nearly 1200 families. But housing must be provided for 1800 other families before the winter sets in, so work is being rushed with all possible speed.

Seven months ago, when the union miners were called out on strike, tents were put up in this district as others to shelter the families of miners who had been evicted from the company homes.

During the summer and early fall, the tents were cozy homes for the 120,000 inhabitants of this colony. Even the cellar homes of some of the less fortunate strikers afforded the shelter which was all they sought. Some even lived in abandoned chicken coops and barns.

But with the wind shrieking around the tents and cellar homes, the miners realize the frailty of these shelters against the frosts of the coming months, and they have started putting up more substantial places for their wives and children.

Appear Frail

Union officials and the working union members throughout the rest of the country are supporting the strikers. Nearly $200,000 already has been spent and thousands more assessments is being collected to help the strikers through their winter siege.

Frail wooden huts these barracks appear from the outside. But within they provide a modest degree of comfort and shelter.

Those of the strikers who have not found other work to occupy their time during their enforced idleness, are being kept at the construction of these barracks. Some 25,000 are at the disposal of the builders for aid in this work, although not all are needed. Five thousand others have jobs at nearby mills or on the highways. About 8000 have left this district for union fields where the miners have returned to work.

Family to a Room

For those who remain with their families, the barracks are put up to help them fight more advantageously against the operators. Little convenience is promised them, even in these finer homes. But essentially, the barracks will be suitable shelter against the weather.

A family to a room is the way the new homes are being allotted. And with miners' families ranging from 4 to 12 or even more children, there is little space for any more comfort than what is necessary.

From four to twenty rooms make up a barracks, all of which are being built in a camp beside the tents. A stove, a table, a few chairs, cots and extra mattresses in cases of larger families, compose the furniture. The inhabitants are satisfied. Warmth and comfort is all they want—aside from a settlement of the strike that gives their views consideration.

Major Arthur M. Shaw of New Orleans, La., is a guest at the home of his brother, S. L. Shaw.

The high school, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Durkin, presented two short plays, entitled, "Training Mary," and "The Haunted Gate," in Woodmen hall Wednesday evening. The proceeds will be used for the high school athletic fund.

Dr. Phillip Yarrow of the Illinois Vigilance association addressed a meeting for men in Woodman hall on Monday evening of last week and at the same time Mrs. C. Corwin Howell spoke in the church at the woman.

The Young People's Sunday school class enjoyed a Halloween party Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hillison. Games and stunts furnished a most enjoyable evening and refreshments were served. The entertainment committee is composed of Misses Ruth Cupitt, Helen Hoover, Dorothy Durkin, and Messrs. Clyde Hillison, Earl Henschel and Ormond Bayler.

Halloween hilarity prevailed in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Swan Sandberg on Saturday night when a party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George King. One ghost welcomed the guests at the door with a cold, clammy handshake, while another assisted the ladies with their wraps. Stunts and games appropriate to the occasion caused much merriment. A delicious menu was served the forty young guests.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlson, daughter Alta Grace, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Burgess of Ashton motored to Chicago last week.
